

Nome, Alaska. Dec. 8, 1913.

Mr. Chas. Replogle,

Deering, Alaska.

Dear Mr. Replogle:-

I am mailing your wife's salary voucher on today's mail, to Seattle for payment. We always do this when vouchers are assigned to people in the States.

Regarding the inventory and requisition, I can not understand why you have no blanks for this work. They are sent from the Seattle office with the stationery for your school. I am sending you two books so that you can at least send the one to Nome and the other to Seattle, promptly.

I am glad that you are getting along so nicely with your work. That is the only thing that really pleases me, at the Nome office, -hearing that a school is doing good work and that the teacher is 'fitting in'. Of course I like to hear about the trials but then I also want to hear how a certain problem was met. It is always, (or generally so), too late by the time advice reaches a school from the Nome Office to be of much benefit.

Supt. Shields is away on a trip of inspection and will be in Nome the latter part of December, after New Years he will start on his Northern trip and will visit you. With best wishes for a Merry Christmas and A Happy New Year, I close.

Sincerely yours,

Assistant Supt.
